$6K Per Incident

Over half of evictions stem from identity fraud, and the outcomes can be costly. With an average time to evict of 3 - 5 months, a property can easily see a skip balance of $6,000 per incident, not including the costs of legal fees.

1.5 Billion Records Exposed

According to the Identity Theft Resource Center (ITRC), a staggering 1.5 billion records have been exposed since 2005 affecting over 16 million victims.

Millions PII Exposed

Large data breaches have exposed personal identifying information (PII) that included SSN, birthdates, addresses, and driver's license numbers. As a person's identity is a collection of puzzle pieces, nefarious actors gained a treasure trove of data to connect and perpetrate fraud.

ResIDV: Advanced Identity Verification

First Advantage identity verification is an easy to use proactive solution for mitigating reputational risk, bad debt, evictions, and vacancies.

Fraud Trends

The past few years have seen plenty of high-profile data breaches where personal information was exposed. Unfortunately, we don't foresee 2019 to be the year that ends data breaches. The sophistication and frequency of these attacks on large platforms are expected to continue, as demand for stolen accounts is still booming. There won't be a shortage of compromised credentials for fraudsters to use in 2019, which increases the importance of implementing an identify fraud detection solution to proactively avoid bad renter outcomes.
