As the number of contributors to the Verified! database rapidly expands with millions and millions of records, you too can harness the power of this leading data repository for your verifications!

How It Works

As employment or education verification requests are made, the Verified! database is leveraged to determine if a verified record exists.

If a match is located, the corresponding results are shared for processing according to your guidelines.

If no matching records are found, the search proceeds as a standard verification fulfillment automatically.

A Leading Independent Database

Verified!® is a contributory database. Participating employers contribute their current and historical employment records to the database, which has been built by First Advantage. As the number of records from employers and third-party providers contributing to the Verified!® database grows, so does the depth and breadth of the database, further increasing its power over time.

Contributing Data: Easy as 1, 2, 3

The process to contribute your employment data to Verified!® is simple.

Step 1: Execute the Verified! Terms/Agreement.

Step 2: Establish the File Share process.

Step 3: Get results!
